The News Review

NEW ways of looking at the unemployment problem are rare. Rexford Tugwell seems to have pined one the other day in his speech at Rochester, N. Y., when he suggested that the unemployed constitute in themselves a great national resource which the country might as well start using.

Work Relief Bill Draws Praise and Some Criticism

MUCH SPECULATION Appointment of Board to Pass on Projects Awaited

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The machinery which President Roosevelt is setting up to spend the $4,000,000,000 work relief fund drew praise and criticism Thursday from opposite sides of the political fence.

"It shows," said Speaker Byrnes, "that he is going to carry out his promise to handle the money through existing agencies. He is keeping another promise by remaining personally responsible for expenditures."

Representative Taber of New York, ranking Republican member of the appropriations committee which handled the relief bill, fired this comment at the job-making setup:

U. S. Government Hikes Silver to New High Levels

Prices Raised Thursday to

TO PAY $1.29 OUNCE

cago Without Notice-

By Associated Press

Silver prices were raised to the highest in over a decade on the principal world markets Thursday by the United States.

So rapid was the rise, speculators held hope that the U. S. Treasury soon must make another advance of the domestic buying price to keep ahead of world markets.

Secretary Morgenthau said the treasury would continue buying silver until the price reached $1.29 an ounce or until the treasury stocks equalled one third the total gold.

Trading Is Quiet

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Trading resumed Thursday without excitement. Grain pits of the Chicago Board of Trade were closed Wednesday by financial difficulties with Rosenbaum Grain corporation.

Price Is Raised

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A treasury price of 71.57 cents an ounce for newly mined silver Wednesday night was established by presidential proclamation.

The new price is effective on all silver mined on or after Wednesday, April 24.

For the last fortnight the treasury has been paying 71.11 cents for the newly mined metal. For more than a year before, the price of the metal was 64.5 cents an ounce.

The proclamation said the action was necessary "in the interest of the United States."

The reference apparently was to the recent rapid rise in world silver prices which had lifted quotations in London Wednesday to 71.67.

The new price was established by reducing the seigniorage charge from 45 to 40 per cent of the coinage value of $1.29 an ounce.

Seigniorage represents the portion of silver which the government holds in its vaults.

Scandal 'Overdone' Grand Jury Reports

Stories of Shooting of John Gorrell at Tulsa
'Exaggerated'

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—Stories of bribery and compromising, obscene pictures which shocked Tulsa society after the shooting of John Gorrell by Phil Kerner, son of a federal judge, were branded "exaggerations" by the grand jury.

Reporting no true bills, the jury laid a "great portion of the inaccurate and unfavorable publicity" to Henry B. Maddux, former police sergeant who investigated Gorrell's death. Maddux resigned last week at the insistence, he said, of Police Commissioner O. P. Hoop. The jury charged that Maddux had failed to make a "complete and proper investigation into the death of Sidney Born Jr."

To Assist Income Tax Payers Here

Auditor for Tax Division to Be in Hope Three Days

Residents of Hempstead county will be assisted in making their annual income tax returns to the State of Arkansas, Earl R. Wiseman, Commissioner of Revenues, said in a letter to the Star Thursday.

Claude Cogger, an auditor for the income tax division of the State Revenue department, will be at the office of Revenue Inspectors Mitchell and Van Sickle for three days, May 1, 2, and 3, to assist taxpayers in making and filing their returns for 1934.

The final date for filing returns without penalty is May 15, under an extension of time issued by Mr. Wiseman. The recent legislature moved the final date of filing up to March 15, but because of the insufficient notice of change, the penalty was waived until May 15.

The revenue office here is located in the Arkansas Bank & Trust company building.

Three Chairman

CAMDEN.—Mrs. David W. McMillan of Arkadelphia was re-elected president of the Woman's Auxiliary, Ouachita Presbytery, synod of Arkansas, at the final session of the thirty-first annual meeting here Wednesday. Malvern was chosen for the 1936 Presbyterial meeting city.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. Philip G. Horton of Arkadelphia, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Roy Wilkerson of Camden, secretary of foreign missions; Mrs. Kink Summer, of Texarkana, secretary of Christian education and ministerial relief; Mrs. G. J. Bensberg of Camden, secretary of spiritual life; Mrs. Mattie Green of Lewisville, secretary of synodical and Presbyterial home missions; Mrs. B. H. Mahoney of El Dorado, secretary of literature.

District chairmen will be Mrs. R. P. Lindsay of Ashdown, District 1; Mrs. J. E. Finch of Malvern, District 2; Mrs. Dorsey McRae of Hope, District 3; and Mrs. Robert Morgan of Camden, District 4.

At Wednesday's session a ceremonial was given in memory of dead members of the Presbyterial. Mrs. J. E. Finch was in charge.

Gentry Admits That He Promised Crosnoe Immunity

Commissioner Revealed as Being Responsible for Clemency

EXPLAINS SITUATION

Local Police Say State Officials Did Not Want Him Sent Up

LITTLE ROCK.—Following disclosure that Governor Futrell granted a 30-day stay of sentence Monday to Charles Crosnoe of Hope, sentenced in Bradley county on a charge of arson, U. A. Gentry, state insurance commissioner and fire marshal, said he wrote former Prosecuting Attorney George Holmes of Rison last September, reminding him that a confession involving others had been obtained from Crosnoe only after an understanding that the prosecutor would recommend a light or suspended sentence.

Crosnoe's six-year sentence was affirmed by the Arkansas Supreme Court several weeks ago, and a motion for a rehearing was denied Monday. The order staying the sentence was not placed on the public clemency file at the governor's office and first reports concerning the stay came from Hope.

It was said at the governor's office that ex-Mayor Ruff Boyett of Hope, Chief of Police C. E. Baker and Policemen Homer Burke, John C. Turner and Harold Porterfield, recommended an indefinite stay of sentence.

In statements at Hope, those who signed the letter to the governor asking for a stay of sentence said they did so "because state officials did not want Crosnoe sent to the penitentiary."

They referred to Mr. Gentry's letter to the prosecuting attorney and said they understood the officials were after the "higher-ups" and not Crosnoe.

Gentry Explains Situation

Mr. Gentry said Wednesday night he was called to the governor's office Monday when the request for a stay was presented and was asked about the case. He said he told Governor Futrell of his investigation and of the agreement with the prosecuting attorney that some consideration should be shown Crosnoe because of his confession, but that he did not recommend clemency.

Mr. Gentry said Crosnoe first confessed to an arson case in Hempstead county and that in attempting to solve the burning of a gin in Bradley county, he (Gentry) tried to induce Crosnoe to divulge names of other persons involved in the case.

He said Crosnoe indicated he would make a confession in the Bradley county case, if he would not have to "take two raps." Mr. Gentry said he discussed the matter by telephone with Prosecuting Attorney Holmes, that the latter agreed to recommend sentences in both cases run concurrently, and that he wrote the letter after he had received information that Mr. Holmes had said he had had no conversation with Gentry concerning the matter.

Immunity Not Upheld

The prosecuting attorney, however, and Mr. Gentry told of their agreement.

Someone's Done Me Wrong!

When Mae West gets married, she'll be the first to know it and then she'll tell the world, says the buxom charmer, shown here in glamorous pose. That's her answer to the report that she married Actor Frank Wallace in 1931. She disposes of the matter tersely with "I never heard of the guy. It must have been two other girls."

No Forgotten Men Declares Mae West

Denies Thursday That She
Wed Song and Dance
Man

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(AP)—There may be a forgotten man in Mae West's life, but Mae went right along denying it Thursday.

"When I got married," said Mae, a little weary about the hubbub over marriage she swears she never experienced, "I'll concentrate on it. And I'll be the first to announce it."

That was buxom "Diamond Lily" latest answer to the supposition that she was the Mae West who married a song-and-dance man named Frank Wallace in Milwaukee 24 years ago.

Reports that the New York Frank Wallace—one of several Frank Wallaces to blossom out of the general Mae West question—was besieged with stage offers on his claim to being the missing "Mr. Mae West," brought another retort from the blonde screen star.

"Well," yelled Mae, "that makes it appear that he is getting precisely what he went after—work."

Mae added that she was glad the New York Frank Wallace "was getting a lift" out of the matter, but said she was sorry "he had to pick on me for it."

To another report from Houston, Texas, linking her name up with an R. A. Burmeister in a marriage license supposedly issued in March, 1924, Mae sighed:

"That's the ninth man since January I'm supposed to have been married to."

'Revenge' Motive for Slaying Texas Jurist and Wife

Son Breaks Down After Wild Night of Grilling
by Officers

YOUTH IS WOUNDED

William A. Pearson and Wife Lured to Lonely
Road and Killed

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—Howard Pearson, 20, confessed to officers Thursday that he killed his father and mother, Associate Justice William Pearson of the Texas Supreme Court and Mrs. Pearson for "revenge."

Pearson, previously denying the crime, broke down after a wild night of grilling. Pearson confessed that he lured his parents to a lonely road, shot them and then wounded himself in the arm.

Previously Pearson said the crime was committed by two robbers. First he shot his mother, he said, then his father, then he sent a bullet through the head of each "to make sure they were dead."

Next he shot himself in the left arm, concealed his father's watch and purse, his own purse, the 38 caliber, five-chambered revolver and a pasteboard box containing eight discharged cartridges in bushes several miles away, and returned to Austin with a story that two robbers had perpetrated the ghastly tragedy.

Subsequently, after nine hours' grilling, he led officers to the place where he had hidden the watch, purse, pistol and box, all of which were recovered. Officers found two other discharged cartridges in the pistol and three at the scene of the killing.

In charging the youth formally with murder, Sheriff Lee Allen said "We have found the motive." Pearson told newspapermen he had "a good reason," but "didn't go into it," saying "he did it for 'revenge'."

Deputy Sheriff Paul Blair quoted him as saying he purchased the revolver in Galveston last Saturday, driving 100 miles out of his way to obtain it.

Pearson made the confession after a wild night in which he twice was taken to the scene, once to direct officers to the bodies and again to discover the gun and other articles. He also was taken to the morgue to view the bodies during which his calm was broken.

Story of Crime

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—Associate Justice William A. Pearson of the Texas Supreme Court and Mrs. Pearson were shot to death Wednesday night on a country road near Austin.

William Pearson Jr., 21, said two highwaymen killed his parents in a robbery. Young Pearson, who notified officers, was shot in the arm.

The bodies were brought to a funeral home.

Young Pearson said he and his parents were driving on the scenic road on route to a peach experiment station on the Colorado river.

About three miles beyond Bull creek, Pearson said two men stepped in front of the Pearson car, pointed guns at the automobile and forced them to stop.

"It was about 100 feet this side of a cattle guard," he said, "and there was a lane by there. They made us drive down the lane about 100 yards and then made us stop the car."

Description Vague

Pearson said one of the men had straight black hair, wore a white shirt and grey trousers, while the other had

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Over night news that President Roosevelt has advanced the price of silver was translated into higher prices on Thursday's cotton market and active figures opened from seven to 14 points higher.

May opened at 11.42, July at 11.62, October 11.22 and December at 11.33, and held around these levels during the early trading.

Notices issued Thursday on the May contract were very small, with 11 one-hundred bale contracts and 34 for the 50 bale contracts.

LIVERPOOL.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed firm, 11 to 15 higher on active buying of the May option owing to notices against only 3500 bales, and under foreign buying of the late months. May 11.58; July 11.65; October 11.30; December 11.35; January 11.40; March 11.51.

Hog Cholera Threatens
Parts in Nevada County

Hog Cholera is now prevalent in parts of Nevada county, and threatens to spread rapidly, according to J. L. Hiler, county agent.

Symptoms of cholera among hogs are sluggishness, lack of desire to eat, weakness in high quarters, high fever, secretion from nostrils and eyes, red spot on flanks and belly and often a cough. Infected animals should be separated from healthy ones and the herd treated at once.

The only successful treatment is vaccination with U. S. inspected serum. To be the most successful, this should be done before disease enters the herd for an animal once sick has far fewer chances of recovery.

YOUR HEALTH

May Day Is Reminder of Diphtheria Danger

There is perhaps no better way to celebrate May Day than to give thought to the children of the United States, especially with regard to prevention of diphtheria. May 1 has been named by health authorities for this particular purpose.

We know enough now about diphtheria to eliminate the disease, if all the people in this country would do their utmost in aiding the application of modern medical knowledge.

We not only know the cause of diphtheria, but we have in addition an antitoxin which, given early and in sufficient amount, will cure the disease in the vast majority of cases. Moreover, a skin test is known which shows whether a child exposed to diphtheria will come down with the disease.

Finally, we have a method of preventing diphtheria, involving use of a single injection of a substance called diphtheria toxoid.

The modern alum precipitated toxoid is a very potent substance which does not produce reactions in children, and which will, after a single injection, make the vast majority of children capable of resisting infection with this disease.

Diphtheria is an inflammation of the throat in the vast majority of cases. It appears as a grayish-white patch.

When a doctor sees this characteristic appearance, he takes a swab or a culture from the throat. The germs are examined under the microscope and an attempt is made to grow the germs on an artificial medium to make certain that the condition is diphtheria.

The disease is such a menace, however, that the doctor does not hesitate to give the antitoxin even before the results of the examination of the material taken from the throat are available.

Effective treatment of diphtheria demands immediate action. Antitoxin given within the first two days of the disease almost invariably cures the patient, whereas delay may result in some of the secondary complications of diphtheria which are serious and in some instances fatal.

These secondary complications are particularly the effects on the heart and paralysis of the throat and of other parts of the body.

Children everywhere should be immunized against diphtheria. In fact, the immunization may be done after the child is 6 months old.

Asserts End Is Near for Capitalist Era
—Jerome Davis Has a Look at Profit Society's Culture

Jerome Davis puts our economic system under the microscope in "Capitalism and Its Culture," and after a patient study he lifts his head to report that it—the system, not the head—is about ready to fall apart.

We have not yet entered a new era, he says; instead, we are still floundering around trying to get to the end of an old one. He sees this end as an inevitable thing, and believes that the only question is how we are going to meet it.

There are, in fact, just three possibilities, he says: we can reform capitalism very drastically, we can use force to preserve it a little while, in the manner of the Fascists, or we can go on to that kind of social order of which Socialism and Communism are the twin faces.

He reaches this conclusion after a painstaking examination of the fruits of capitalism society.

Every aspect of modern life, he holds, is conditioned by our profit-motive economic system. Not only is the kind of work we do affected by capitalism, our play, our religion, our agriculture, our art, our homes, our education—all those things which go to make up our present culture—are what they are because we live in a capitalist society.

And it is Mr. Davis' contention that all of them would serve us better if they were freed from capitalism's influence.

As you can readily see, this is an

Jones Assumes Duty as Coach

Takes Up New Army Assignment at Oklahoma University

NORMAN, Okla., (AP)—Captain Lawrence (Biff) Jones took up his new army assignment as head football coach at the University of Oklahoma Wednesday and observed:

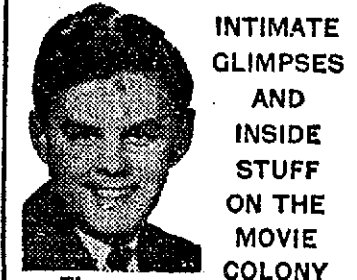

"The best poison for wolves (who have nipped the heels of one after another of his predecessors) is a winning team. We'll try to give 'em one."

"We" meant Captain Jones of the army and late of Louisiana State, and assistants, Robert H. (Doc) Erskine of Loyola, New Orleans, and Tom Stidham, Northwestern line coach, who used to play for Checotah, Okla., high school before he starred at Haskell Institute. Jones introduced them at a press conference Wednesday.

His blue eyes twinkled when he was reminded that Senator Huey Long, whose attempt to run Louisiana State football caused Jones to leave, once attended "O. U." for a year, studying law.

"Well, he probably accomplished as much as the average man would in three years," Jones commented.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

Lock For Five New Faces In Films

HOLLYWOOD—Five new faces, all still strange even in Hollywood, soon will be occupying prominent positions on the silver screen.

They belong to Frances Grant, Barbara Blane, Rita Cansino, Madelyn Earle and Rosita Diaz—each of whom has just been signed to a long-term contract by the Fox studio.

While it's still too early to predict just how brilliantly these new film proteges will shine, studio executives express considerable confidence in the whole group. Oddly enough too, they're all brunets. Which may mean that the trend in screen actresses during the next couple of years will be toward dark-haired maidens.

One of the girls, Miss Blane, never yet has faced a movie camera. That's an experience to which she can look forward when she arrives in Hollywood in about three weeks.

Barbara was discovered while dancing in a night club in New York. So outstanding was her beauty, pep and dancing ability that she was offered a contract without even being subjected to the tortures of a screen test. And believe me, those tests are torturous.

Makes Good at Start
Frances Grant, smallest of the quintet, started her acting career as an ingenue in a Maiden, Mass., stock company. Later she went to New York where she grabbed a job in the Ziegfeld Follies. Then she was discovered by a Fox scout in "Forward, March." He offered her a minor role in Will Rogers' picture, "Doubting Thomas." She made that part stand out like a sore thumb. At a result she has been signed on a five-year ticket.

Decidedly Spanish in type and quite mature for her 17 years, Rita Cansino literally danced her way into the movies. This youngster with long, raven black hair has been dancing ever since she could walk. About a year ago she started studying dramatics and recently she was cast for a role in the Spanish version of "The

Clean Out Kidney Poisons

Wash Out Your 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes

If kidneys don't pass 3 pints a day and get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters may become clogged with poisonous waste and the danger of acid poisoning is greatly increased. Bladder passages are difficult, which often smart and burn like scalding water and cause discomfort.

This acid condition, brought about by poor kidney functions is a danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Most people watch their bowels which contain only 27 feet of intestines but neglect the kidneys which contain 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters. If these tubes or filters become clogged with poisons, it may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't run any risk. Make sure your kidneys empty 3 pints a day.

PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

Rest Cure." Although born in this country, she speaks Spanish fluently. Madelyn Earle points to her contract as proof that winning a beauty contest still can get a girl a place before Hollywood's movie cameras. The dark-haired beauty from North Carolina, she captured first prize in a popularity contest last fall, the prize being a trip to Hollywood.

The studio which brought her here let her go after she had played one small role. However, a Fox executive saw the film recently and offered her a contract immediately.

Rounding out the quintet is Rosita Diaz, who appeared in some 40 stage productions in Madrid and Paris before coming to the United States. So far she has made only one film here, a Spanish version of "Angelina." But she was so good in it that Fox officials now are going to put her in American versions.

Final Task for Byrd
As soon as 100,000 feet of film can be trimmed to 12,000 or 15,000 feet, America will get a pictorial story of Admiral Byrd's latest expedition to the South Pole. Tractors nose-diving into snow-filled crevasses and collapse of the Mountain House in which Byrd lived during his isolation will be two features of the film, according to John Hermann, official photographer of the expedition.

"Cameramen here don't know how well off they are," Hermann declares. "It was so cold that we had to wear silk gloves to keep our hands from freezing to the camera mechanism. And a good bit of the time we even had to heat the cameras and film before we could shoot at all."

Hop Never Dead
HOLLYWOOD, often termed "heart-break town," really isn't that at all, according to Louis Sarecky, casting director for Walter Wanger productions. On the contrary, it is a land of eternal hope.

As basis for this contention, Sarecky pulls out a list of 2000 names. It represents men, women, and youngsters who once gained fame on the screen only to lose it again. Another list reveals that 1906 of this group still are working in the studios at one kind of jobs they can get—each still hoping that his big moment will come again.

Commenting on protests against an alleged "liquor price combine" among wholesale dealers, Wiseman said he was powerless to regulate prices. One phase of the protests, he said, was that South Arkansas residents could purchase liquor in Louisiana at retail cheaper than Arkansas retailers could buy the same brands from wholesalers.

Who Was Christ? Theme of Sermon

Evangelist Brings Message to Tabernacle Crowd Here

INSIDE—Who Was Christ? Peter's great confession, Matt. 16: 13-20 was the scriptural basis for Miss Lewis' sermon at the Tabernacle Wednesday night.

Miss Lewis said: "In answer to Christ's question 'But whom say ye that I am,' Peter said, 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.' The answer that we give when confronted with the same question governs our eternal destiny. There are four positions taken by people today with regard to Christ.

"Those who like the Scribes and Pharisees say that he is an impostor and a deceiver. He was different from the Scribes and Pharisees. He had their number, and openly rebuked them for their hypocrisy. He told them to make clean the inside of the cup before washing the outside.

"Then there are those like the religious teachers of Christ's day, Nicodemus and others, who said 'We know that Thou art a great teacher, come from God.' Christ is a great teacher, but much more than a teacher. This position regarding Christ would place Him along with Buddha, Mohammed and Confucius. It takes more than a teacher to rid men of their sins.

"Third, there are those who rank Christ along with the prophets, Elijah, Jeremiah, and others. But Christ was more than a Prophet.

"Then we have those who can proclaim with Peter, 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.' Without this confession, we would have no Christian religion. If education would bring salvation we would have had it long ago. Thank God for education, but it takes more than education. Saul of Tarsus did not get to God through his education. He was well educated, but how did he receive Christ. It was through revelation.

"People, the church, need a revelation of Jesus Christ tonight. Sin doesn't leave us by our making up our minds to quit sinning. A revelation of Jesus Christ is necessary. Why didn't the Scribes, the Pharisees, Nicodemus and others know who he was. They had not had a revelation of Jesus Christ. Christ said, 'Upon this rock I will build my church.' Not on Peter, but on the truth that Christ is the Son of the Living God.

"If we confess Him before men, He will confess us before God. Have you confessed Him tonight? If not, you are still in your sins. Whom do you say that He is?"

Coughlin Political Campaign Opened

Radio Priest Launches Organization Drive at Detroit Meeting

DETROIT—(AP)—Under a banner of "United We Stand, Divided We Fall," the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin led his National Union for Social Justice into active participation in American politics Wednesday night.

The priest promised a crowd which practically filled Olympia stadium, seating 15,000 persons, "to drive out of public life the men who have promised us redress" and failed.

An ovation was given the priest and the members of congress who spoke but boos mingled with the cheers when Louis Ward, an associate of Father Coughlin referred to "the time when Father Coughlin was under attack by a certain kept general, Hugh S. Johnson.

Lawmakers Attend
Among the speakers were Senators Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma and George N. P. Nye of North Dakota, who came by plane; Representative William Lemke of North Dakota, Representative William Connery of Massachusetts, Representative Thomas O'Malley of Wisconsin and Representative Martin L. Sweeney of Ohio.

Asserting that Michigan was to be made the cornerstone of his experiment to mold and wield public influence, Father Coughlin said:

"Are you willing to follow me?" His question brought deafening applause for a minute. Thousands stood up in the balconies waving and cheering.

"In the state of Michigan, which among all the states is most notorious for its lack of solidarity on the part of the laboring man, a beginning will be made," he said.

Seeks Bargaining Power
Pointing out that Michigan's workmen in the automobile field "are practically devoid of bargaining power because they lack solidarity," Father Coughlin said:

"It is here where we shall begin to indicate that the National Union is not born to fail if its success is to be gained by the might of the obstacles to be overcome. Michigan, the most disorganized state in the union, shall become its spearhead.

"Under the mighty spear of social justice, we will organize. The business and professional men of Michigan are behind you to organize for a just and living wage. The du Ponts, Fords, Chryslers, I'm not afraid of them. We want independence for all under the common Union for Social Justice for the farmer, the laborer, the small business man."

$72,000 Taken in Payroll Robbery

Three Machine Gunmen Make Escape With Mail Pouches

WARREN, O.—(AP)—A machine gun robber who wore shell-crimed glasses and worked with two accomplices held up a United States mail truck here Wednesday, forced the driver to proceed to a garage on the outskirts of the city, and then escaped with four pouches of mail, one containing $72,000 in currency.

Although the truck driver, Burl Villers, carried a pistol, not a shot was fired, and he was left by the robbers inside the truck, uninjured when they fled.

Col. Lynn Black, superintendent of the state highway patrol, expressed belief the robbers were the same as those who Tuesday night held up a filling station at Columbus, and Wednesday morning raided the State Savings bank at Woodville, near Fremont, of $1000.

The money taken in the Warren holdup had been sent by registered mail by the Federal Reserve bank in Cleveland to the Second National bank of Warren, to meet a Republic Steel Corporation payroll.

Villers was driving a load of mail from the Erie railroad station here to the postoffice when, he told police, two men boarded his truck, pointed pistols at him, and forced him to drive to the edge of the city.

Doctor Says Quintuplets Recovering Satisfactorily

CALLANDER, Ont.—(AP)—Ontario physicians were in general agreement Wednesday on the health of the Dionne quintuplets. Three doctors have decided that the head colds have about sneezed themselves away from Marie, although the latter is not up. Awards will be made in the primary, to pair. Marie showed a two-ounce weight gain.

Dr. G. W. Smith of North Bay, third physician to examine the children, announced they were satisfactorily recovering. He represented Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne. The father was not satisfied by examinations of Dr. Allan Roy Dufor, the regular physician, and Dr. Alan Brown, Toronto specialist. He and the mother of the five, who live 100 yards from the hospital, were invited to be present while Dr. Smith made the examination, but they did not appear.

Dr. Smith, who had told Dionne he would not attempt to examine the babies unless he was invited to do so by Dr. Dufor, commended the excellent care the infants are having.

ment to recommend consideration for Crosonoe when the latter was tried before the late Circuit Judge Patrick Henry. Judge Henry heard their statements in chambers and would not let the statements go to the jury as testimony. The Supreme Court, in affirming Crosonoe's sentence, held that statements to Crosonoe by Mr. Gentry and Mr. Holmes were not equivalent to promise of immunity.

Mr. Gentry said that Crosonoe's confession resulted in indictment of Ben F. Wilson of Minden, La., a salesman for a gin manufacturing company, on charges of having hired Crosonoe to burn the gin near Warren. Gentry said that Crosonoe confessed that he received $500 from Wilson to burn the gin, and that he (Crosonoe) paid Jesse Hutson $100 to do the actual burning. Hutson now is in the penitentiary. He corroborated Crosonoe's confession in a separate confession. Mr. Gentry said, but the court did not permit their confessions to go before the jury. Wilson was convicted on testimony of Crosonoe and Hutson but the Supreme Court reversed the case on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to corroborate the testimony of Crosonoe and Hutson. The Wilson case was remanded for a new trial but he has not been tried again.

Meantime the Hempstead county grand jury refused to indict Crosonoe on his purported confession to having set fire to property at Washington, Hempstead county, Mr. Gentry said.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MILICENT GRAVES, secretary to GEORGE HINGGOLD, made her employer in his office dead. JARVIS HAPPE, a stranger, offers to help her. He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunette, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets HAPPE and NORMAN, his stepson. ROBERT CAISE, HAPPE's partner, and VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. HAPPE's maid.

In HAPPE's home Millicent sees the mysterious woman in black, realize whom she believes has some connection with Hinggold's death.

The chauffeur is killed. Later HAPPE is kidnapped.

Millicent and Norman learn the car driven by the woman in black belongs to PHYLIS PAUL-CONCE. They go to her apartment and while there someone tries to enter. Norman follows to find out who it is. Millicent discovers the suitcase containing HAPPE's business accounts. She takes it and goes to the hotel where she stayed before. The clerk telephones that a man is asking for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVII

MILICENT turned away from the telephone and faced the door, feeling sick with dread. No one could possibly know of that room in the hotel unless it was someone who had followed her had been playing with her as a cat plays with a mouse.

The pounding on the door was repeated, this time more insistently.

Millicent made up her mind that, come what might, she was not going to open that door.

She stood perfectly still, listening, waiting.

Once more the knuckles pounded on the door, and a man's voice said, "Please let me in."

Millicent's heart gave a wild surge. She thought she recognized the man's voice. She literally ran across the room to the door and said, "Who is it, please?"

Norman HAPPE's voice said, "Thank God you're safe."

Her quivering fingers twisted the key in the lock.

Norman HAPPE pushed the door back, entered and clasped her in his arms—all as it seemed to Millicent in one swift motion.

"My precious," he said. "Oh, my dear one!"

Without volition on her part, her face tilted back. Millicent knew that her soul was in her eyes. Her lips were half-parted as she gasped, "Norman, I'm so glad I'm so . . ."

His lips pressed close to hers, stopped her words. For a long, blissful moment she clung to him, her heart seeming to throb in unison with his heart. Then she pushed him away, half-laughing, half-sobbing.

Norman looked impatiently over his shoulder, kicked the door shut with a bang of his heel, and once more his hungry lips sought hers.

This time, however, Millicent had herself under control. Norman's arrival when she had believed all was lost had been such a relief that she had surrendered blindly to the sudden impulse that had welled up within her breast.

"By," she said, "but you're taking a lot for granted, aren't you, Mr. Norman G. HAPPE?"

HER tone was half playful, but her hands, palm outward, pushed his shoulders back, and suddenly his face underwent a change of expression.

"I'm sorry," he said, "I I presume too much. I didn't realize what I was doing. I rushed back to that apartment house just as soon as I could make it. I followed Bob Caise and saw a taxicab pulling away from the curb. I couldn't be certain, but I thought I caught a glimpse of you in the cab. I thought at the time you had seen Bob Caise and had turned away to keep him from seeing you."

"I had," Millicent said, "but what happened? Why didn't you come back?"

"I ran down the stairs," he told her, "and missed the man who had gone down in the elevator, but I dashed across the lobby to the sidewalk and was just in time to see him getting into a car. The man was Dick Gentry, my father's partner, and the car he was driving was Bob Caise's cabriolet."

"But, good heavens!" she exclaimed. "Mr. Gentry came back and went in that room. He had a key to it."

Norman frowned thoughtfully. "I'm wondering," he said, "if Bob Caise hadn't given Dick Gentry the key to the apartment and I'm wondering if perhaps he hadn't made a mistake and given Gentry the wrong key, so Gentry had to go back to get the right key."

"Perhaps—but why didn't you come back to the apartment?"

"I'm coming to that," he told her. "As soon as I spotted Gentry I wanted to see what he was doing and where he was going, so I stationed myself against the side of the building and watched him drive away. He'd rounded the corner before I turned back to go in the apartment house. Then I remembered that I didn't have a key that would open the outer door. We'd had to ring the bell, you remember, in order to get through that outer door. So I was looking around for some likely looking bell to ring when I felt a touch on my shoulder and whirled around. Who do you suppose was there?"

"Who?" she asked.

"Sergeant Mahoney," he told her.

SHE gave a quick exclamation of dismay. "Then he knows about the place?"

"I don't know. I don't think so. His car was there at the curb. He told me he was driving past and saw me, so he parked his car and ran across to talk to me."

"What did he say? What was it he wanted? Was it about me?"

"Yes. He wanted to know when I'd seen you last. He was very anxious to get in touch with you."

"He would be."

"Don't misjudge him," Norman HAPPE answered slowly. "I think he understands a great deal more than he lets on. I told him that I knew you weren't running away, and he laughed and said that he knew it, too."

"You know, he's pretty shrewd and I didn't dare to appear to be in too much of a hurry because otherwise he would have smelled a rat. Apparently he hadn't noticed that I was about to ring one of the apartment bells and he indicated it might be well for me to get into his car and drive out to the house with him."

"Did you do it?" she asked.

"Yes," he told her. "I had to."

"What about your father?" she inquired, her voice showing her anxiety.

"That was what Sergeant Mahoney wanted to see me about—that kidnapping. He says it doesn't look to him like a professional job."

"Has any ransom been demanded?"

"Yes. Vera Duchene answered the telephone a couple of hours ago. A man's voice said, 'The ransom on Jarvis HAPPE will be $100,000, and must be paid up before Vera could say a word.'"

"Did he say where the money was to be paid, or how?"

"No. That's the funny part of it; he didn't. He gave her just that message and nothing more."

"But won't Sergeant Mahoney tap the lines? Don't they do that in kidnapping cases?"

"Yes. He's going to do that or has done it already, but he's satisfied father's in grave danger."

"How about raising the ransom?" she asked.

"A CINCH," he told her. "Just between you and me, Cynthia has already got the $100,000, but Sergeant Mahoney thinks there's more to it than just a question of $100,000."

"How could there be? What does he mean?"

"I don't know. It's one of those things that Sergeant Mahoney handles in his own way. He isn't telling us all that he knows . . . but we've got to do something about getting your troubles cleaned up. What brought you here?"

"I waited for you. You didn't come. I looked in the closet and found the suitcase containing the books that had been stolen from my room. They are still in the original suitcase. I took them out and brought them here. I wanted an opportunity to work on them before I said anything to anyone. I think they'll show that Dick Gentry is short in his accounts—badly short."

"Gentry's a crook," Norman said, "and he's mixed up in this thing so deep he'll never convince me he isn't a double-crossing, four-flushing traitor."

"Well," she said, "we can soon find out if I can get an hour or two to go over these books."

"We have to get that liquor man to get a look at Phyllis Paul-conce. We'd better do that," Norman said.

"I'm not going to leave this room," she told him, "until I've gone over these books."

"And I'm not going to leave this room. I'm going to stay here and protect you," he assured her.

She hesitated a moment, then said, "Promise me you won't interfere?"

"You mean by being impulsive?"

"Yes," she said.

He nodded his head. "At any rate, I can try," he asserted.

A hungry light gleamed once more in his eyes. Millicent found her eyes held by his. She couldn't look away—nor did she want to. Almost involuntarily she found herself swaying toward him and then was clasped in his arms, his lips seeking hers and her lips clinging in an embrace which seemed to drain her soul into some vast well of harmony where it mingled with his.

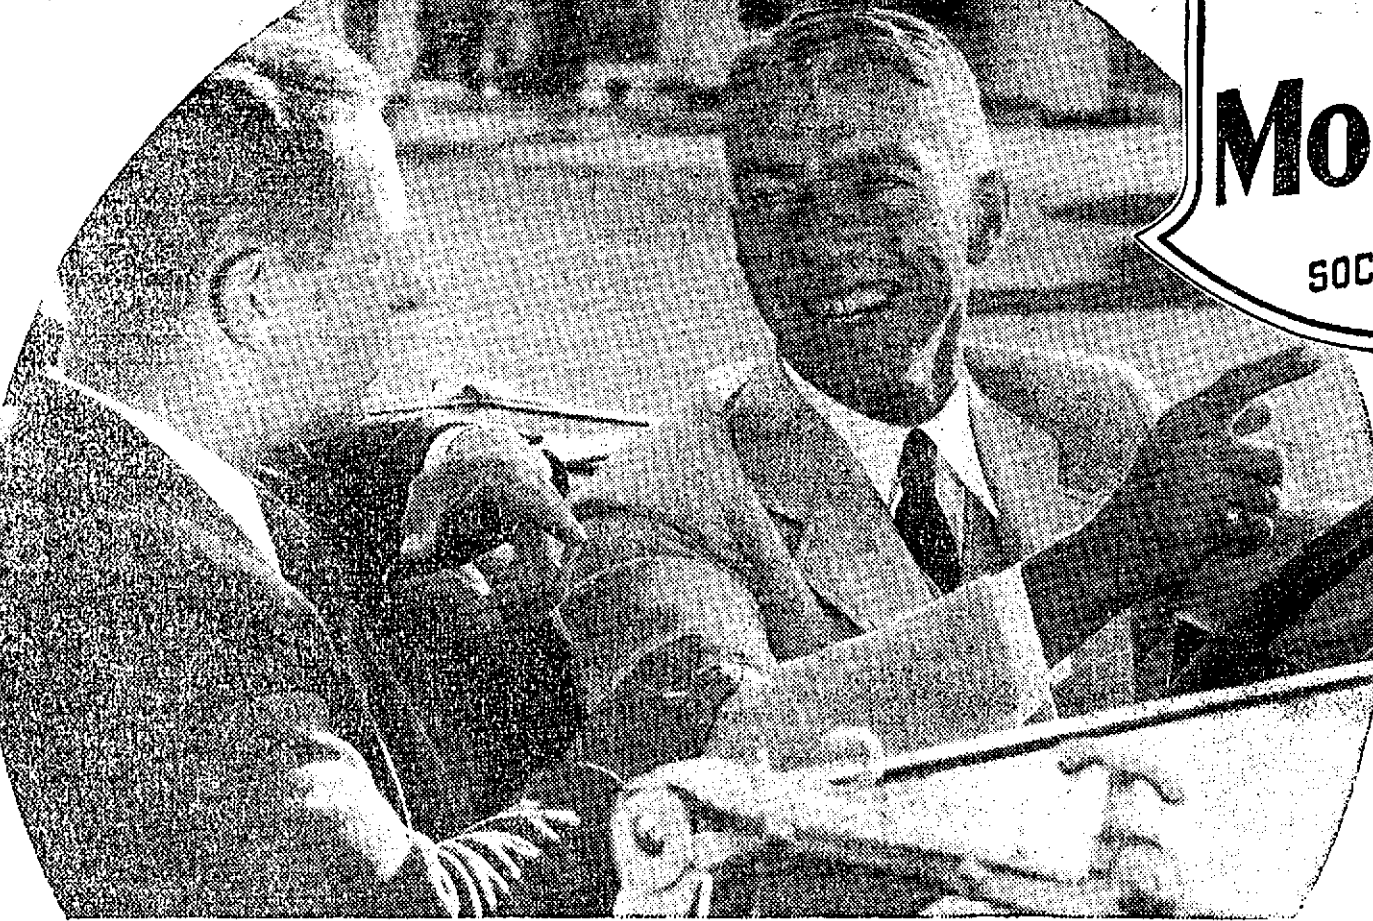

"Norman," she whispered, and heard his voice pouring into her ears.

"My sweetheart, my own, my dearest one."

Giant New Tanker for Magnolia Co.

2-Million-Dollar Socony-Vacuum Added to Oil Carrying Line

BEAUMONT, Texas.—Laden with her maiden cargo of 5,330,000 gallons of Texas produced and refined gasoline, the new $2,000,000 tanker "Socony-Vacuum" is leaving on her first trip from Beaumont to Boston.

The "Socony-Vacuum" is a sister ship of the "Magnolia," launched last week in New York in the presence of E. R. Brown, chairman of the board of the Magnolia Petroleum company, and Ralph H. Kinslow, vice president and general manager. Mr. Brown built the Southwest's first refinery for Magnolia at Corsicana, Texas, where Mr. Kinslow also entered the service of the company, and both also have been active in the development of the company's largest refinery at Beaumont and the deep water port of this city.

The "Socony-Vacuum," an ocean-going tanker 500-feet long, is the fourth ship to be launched in a $5,000,000 ship-building program announced some months ago by the company.

The vessel is equipped with the most modern aids to navigation, such as: Sperry Gyro Compass and Pilot, Radio Director Finder, short and long wave radio communication, electric deep sea sounding device and numerous safety devices in connection with the high-pressure superheated power plant for propelling machinery.

When the "Magnolia" was launched, the Socony-Vacuum Company's $5,000,000 shipbuilding program will have been completed. It was announced The new ships launched by the company since March include the "Poughkeepsie-Socony," the largest all-welded merchant vessel ever built in this country; and three barges, self-propelled by Diesel engines.

Socony-Vacuum now owns or operates under charter one of the largest fleets in the American Merchant marine. It includes large ocean-going vessels with a total dead-weight tonnage of almost 800,000 tons. More than 45,000,000 barrels of crude oil and refined products were transported by the fleet last year. For inland waterways and harbor transportation the company also operates 21 self-propelled barges; 140 towing barges, and 25 tugs, which handle more than 57,000,000 barrels of oil during a year.

Women Discover New V-8 Features

Engineering Notes Interest Them as Much as Style and Color

What features of the Ford V-8 for 1935 appeal most to women? Believe it or not, women drivers are just as interested in mechanical and engineering features as they are in features of style and beauty, according to local Ford dealers.

"Smart interiors that will harmonize with whatever ensemble she may be wearing, delight the woman driver, but she also demands to be told just how the brake efficiency has been increased approximately 40 per cent," said Tom McLarty of Hope Auto Company.

"And after they have ridden in the new V-8 and noted its smooth control over rough roads," added Mr. McLarty, "they want to be shown how and why the 'full-floating spring base' and 'comfort zone' for all passengers make such a ride possible."

Women are quick to grasp the significance of engineering improvements, the dealer said, just as their instinct for style and beauty tells them immediately whether or not a car meets their mental standard for smartness.

"And women are flocking to Ford this year more than ever," Mr. McLarty declared. "Even when the husbands object to the buying," he added, "the wives' opinion comes in for major consideration before the deal is closed."

As to the other features which appeal most to women, Mr. McLarty included safety glass in all models, soft, smooth clutch, ease of steering, modern streamline styling, V-8 power, ease of parking, flexibility in traffic, and above all, comfort on all types of roads.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—Our little brown brothers learn the processes of civilization—when they want to.

For instance, the technique of trying to get relief money into the hands of the local politicians. The administration has been having trouble with that in Louisiana and Georgia, where by some singular coincidence the regnant political machines happen to be violently against Mr. Roosevelt.

The administration also had trouble down in Puerto Rico, where it may be spending 40 to 50 million dollars before it finishes a proposed rehabilitation program.

The Puerto Rican legislature passed an act which would have put the money under control of a corporation officered by island politicians. Fortunately, the governor down there is a presidential appointee and listens to reason.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman wired Governor Winship, urging him to veto the bill. Winship did. Loud cries of "dictatorship" arose from the Puerto Rican politicians. The legislature went "on strike."

Now Resident Commissioner Francisco A. Delgado of the Philippines, where no such program is contemplated, has written to Chapman.

"You do not look like a dictator to me," he says. "The Philippines will be delighted to receive any money whatever to be spent under any conditions you suggest."

Nea Comeback.

Congressman Charles F. Truax of Ohio, interrupting remarks of Congressman Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey during the security bill debate:

"I was formerly a hog raiser—"

Congressman Eaton, interrupting Congressman Truax:

"I can well believe it!"

O. K. as is, Farley View

Anyone here who has a trace of cynicism or suspension in his system will tell you that Mr. Farley's Post-office Department administration isn't interested in passage of any bill to "take the postoffice out of politics," such as Roosevelt directed Farley to prepare a year or more ago.

Least of all is it interested, from any friendly point of view, in the drastic bill to that end fathered by Senator George Norris of Nebraska.

Norris finally dragged out of Farley's department report on the various bills purporting to end the postal service's career as a huge patronage pie counter.

Usually, in such cases, the bills are analyzed and objections or approvals registered. But Farley didn't bother about that. He just said he favored the O'Mahoney bill, which has been attacked on the ground that it would load the postal service up entirely with Democrats and freeze them into their jobs.

"Scavengers" After Huey

Members of a "scavenger party," sprinkled with congressmen and debutantes, the other night were called upon to produce "one of Huey Long's calling cards."

Huey was out of town, but Earle Christenberry, his secretary, was posted for hours with visits and telephone calls at his apartment.

It turned out that the Kingfish possessed no such thing as a calling card. Most of the boys and girls were willing to take envelopes and other papers with the senator's name thereon.

But some couple—it isn't clear just which—brought themselves to chisel the bronze nameplate off Huey's door.

"Peace" Meet in Chevrolet Strike

Toledo Plant Shutdown, 2,340 Men Are Out of Work

TOLEDO, Ohio.—(AP)—The Labor Department took a hand in the controversy of striking workers and officials of the Chevrolet Motor plant here Thursday.

With a "peace" meeting scheduled with union workers Friday, Labor Secretary Perkins sent Thomas Williams, labor department conciliator, to study the situation.

A walkout of Chevrolet Motor company employees closed the Toledo plant Tuesday and put a fresh blot on the map already dotted with industrial strikes.

Members of the United Automobile Workers' Federal union quit the factory after the company refused a demand for a closed shop, despite concessions of a 5 per cent wage increase and seniority recognition.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said there was "grave danger" of contagion in the strike, which he felt might spread to other automobile companies. The Toledo closing put 2,340 men out of work.

At Birmingham, Ala., police riot squads were summoned to scattered hundreds of laundry workers and sympathizers in their two weeks old strike. Tear gas bombs were used to disperse demonstrators at three large laundry plants. A closed shop and more pay is their demand.

While Omaha walked or motored through the fourth day of a street car strike, the company promised to start the cars as soon as the mayor provided adequate protection and his honor said the police were ready. All was quiet, including the trolleys.

St. Louis police nabbed a striking company and seized a quantity of dynamite, preventing an attempt to blast gas valve box. The strike was called March 28 to enforce recognition of the union as exclusive bargaining agent. A residential gas main was bombed Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Stroupe and children of Nashville and Mrs. Floyd Cummings of Prescott were the guests of Miss Irma Dobins, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Hill and children, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baber and two sons, and William Baber, were Sunday visitors to Benlomaud, the guests of relatives.

Mrs. T. L. Hoekersmith has returned to her home in Benton after a visit to her mother, Mrs. Chlorea City.

Misses Irma and Lillian Robins were shopping in Hope Saturday.

Mrs. Charlie Irvin and daughter, Mary Francis were shopping in Hope Wednesday.

Mrs. W. F. Robins and Mrs. J. K. Green were shopping in Hope Wednesday.
